Some Reebok watch models support activating your smartphone's AI assistant, such as Google Assistant or Siri, directly from your watch. This can make certain everyday tasks easier without having to navigate your phone manually.

If you use your watch to activate your phone's AI assistant, keep in mind that the assistant's audio volume is controlled on your phone.

Adjusting the assistant volume:

- Android: Use your phone's volume buttons or open Settings > Sound & Vibration and adjust the appropriate volume setting.
- iPhone: Use the side volume buttons or adjust the available Siri volume settings under Settings > Siri or Settings > Apple Intelligence & Siri, depending on your iOS version.

Make sure your watch is connected to your phone through Bluetooth and the Reebok Connect app when using the assistant.

Available assistant features and volume controls may vary depending on your watch model, smartphone, and operating system.

Please note: Check your model's specifications to confirm whether this feature is available.
